HOW OUR AGENTS WORK FOR YOU

Whether a seasoned investor or first time home buyer, a real estate professional is a vital partner in the home-buying process. While buyers today are more educated about real estate than ever before, all the research in the world can't match an experienced agent's "in-the-trenches" understanding of what's happening in the market today. In fact, our agents sell 3x as many homes as the average agent in the Hampton Roads. Without the pavement-pounding and advance scouting an agent does on your behalf, you might wind up overpaying for a home or losing out on the home of your dreams.

Also, unlike a parent, spouse, partner or best friend, an agent can give you a completely objective and professional opinion of the properties you are considering.

If nothing else, keep in mind that a buyers' agent is typically compensated by the seller. You have nothing to lose and everything to gain by utilizing the expertise of an agent. And from the moment you select an Atlantic Sotheby's International Realty agent until the day you move in, our highly skilled agents will be working for you.

HOW TO PREPARE FOR A HOME LOAN

What you need to know during the mortgage process.

MORTGAGE PROCESS DO'S

1. Keep all existing credit card accounts open.
2. Maintain employment at your current job.
3. Pay off collections, judgements, or tax liens reported within the past year.
4. Stay current on your existing accounts.
5. Call me. I'm here to help you!

MORTGAGE PROCESS DON'TS

1. Don't apply for a new credit card of ANY kind.
2. Don't max out/overcharge existing credit cards.
3. Don't consolidate debt to one or two cards.
4. Don't make any large purchases.
5. Don't Make any large deposits into any bank accounts.

*Remember: Most Lenders Pull Credit The Day Before Or Day Of Closing.

THE ADVANTAGES OF HOME OWNERSHIP

A home is most likely the largest purchase you will ever make, and it marks a major step in life. There is no scientific formula that tells someone when they're ready to buy, but you should take stock of your financial situation as well as your personal lifestyle. In general, there are a number of advantages to homeownership, both tangible and intangible, that you'll want to consider.

Investment

Every payment you make on your mortgage puts you one step closer to acquiring a major possession. And every improvement you make to your property not only enhances your way of life, but also adds value to your home.

Protection From Inflation

Once you purchase a home, the bulk of your housing costs are not exposed to inflation. That means your only housing expenses that will rise over time with inflation are property taxes, homeowners insurance and maintenance costs.

Equity

Because a home increases in value even as you are paying down your loan, most buyers effortlessly build equity. Equity creates wealth and can help you accomplish any number of financial goals, such as paying for retirement or funding a child's education.

Tax Advantages

Your real estate taxes and the interest on your mortgage are usually deductible from your income tax. For many buyers, that tax break can go a long way toward making home ownership just as affordable as renting. Check with your accountant.

Satisfaction

For many people, but certainly not all, home ownership simply makes life more enjoyable, whether it's the pride that comes from decorating and maintaining your home or the knowledge that your family will grow up in the neighborhood of your choice. Homeownership is still the American Dream.

On the surface, buying a home may seem like a relatively straightforward process.

However there are dozens of variables in any transaction that can make purchasing real estate quite complex. Being prepared and organized makes the process that much easier and more enjoyable. Here are some steps in the process:

THE BUYING PROCESS

I. Choosing An Agent

Choosing a good agent to guide you through a real estate transaction is as important as buying a home.

Homebuyers should give just as much consideration to hiring a buyer's representative as sellers give to hiring a listing agent. That means conducting interviews, seeking referrals and researching the company as well as the individual.

While it's important to ask potential agents a number of questions relating to their experience and routines, it's also important to listen for the questions they ask you to get a feel for if they're really intent on understanding your needs.

Experience in your preferred neighborhood and/or style of home is important, but so is the comfort level between agent and client, because buying a home is a highly personal experience. Ultimately, you only work with one agent, so it should be someone you like, trust and respect and who feels the same way about you.

2. Getting Pre-Qualified For A Mortgage

In today's home-buying environment, a mortgage pre-qualification is not only an essential tool in winning an offer; it is also incredibly easy to obtain – whether online, over the phone or in-person. A mortgage pre-qualification lets you know exactly what you can afford to buy. It also demonstrates to a seller that you are a willing and able buyer. It also gives you a head start in getting an actual loan commitment.

Learn more about pre-qualifications by visiting with a lender online or in person, if you don't know of any lenders our agents would be more than happy to suggest some options for you to interview. More information about mortgages is located in this guide (See Glossary of Terms).

As a general rule, most experts say that your housing expenses should not exceed 28% of your gross monthly income, but a variety of factors - from your credit score to other debt - can open this ratio up to a pretty wide range. Remember that there are other costs involved in buying a home, such as moving, decorating and remodeling expenses. You should also consult with your accountant or financial advisor to talk about how real estate affects your financial goals. Knowing where you will come out of the transaction will give you a lot more confidence going in, and equip you with powerful info that can help your agent seek a deal that is best suited for your needs and ability.

THE BUYING PROCESS

3. Creating A Wishlist

Almost every home purchase involves some degree of compromise, which is why it is important to prioritize your wants and needs before you begin your search. There are many variables to think about depending on your lifestyle, budget and future plans, but some universal considerations include:

LOCATION Hampton Roads offers many great neighborhoods, each with its own distinct character. Consider the lifestyle factors that are important to you, such as schools; transportation; and neighborhood amenities like restaurants, shops and parks. Here are some ways to research an area you're considering.

TYPE OF HOME A great diversity of housing exists within Hampton Roads: single-family homes, condominiums, urban living condominiums, townhomes, new-construction, vintage homes, re-sales and fixer-uppers. You probably have a preference for a certain style of construction. Weigh the pros and cons to narrow your focus.

FEATURES AND AMENITIES Garage parking, hardwood floors, a fireplace, outdoor space, a doorman. In the end, these are the kinds of details that drive the decision to purchase one home versus another. In creating this list, some things to consider are resale value, your daily routine, and the cost of making changes or additions down the road.

- Tap Local resources like the Chamber of Commerce, which can provide information about area businesses and community events.
- Seek out neighborhood civic leagues and/or residents and get their opinion about where they live.
- Drive or walk through the neighborhood at various times of the day they live.
- Leverage your agent's expertise in the neighborhood

4. Finding Your Home

Once you have obtained a mortgage pre-qualification, you are ready to begin your home search with the help of your agent.

REVIEW LISTINGS

Using the guidelines you set forth, your agent will present you with available listings. In addition to price and property attributes, pay close attention to data like property taxes, market time and monthly assessments for condos and Townhomes.

VIEW PROPERTIES

Your Atlantic Sotheby's International Realty agent will schedule showings and accompany you on each appointment. When you walk through a home, some things to consider are: how the space functions for your lifestyle; what's included in the total square footage (balcony, attic or garage); and, in new construction, which features are standard and which are upgrades.

THE BUYING PROCESS

4. Finding Your Home (cont)

OPEN HOUSES + NEW CONSTRUCTION

Remember, if you are attending Open Houses without your agent, be sure to mention that you are being represented by an Atlantic Sotheby's International Realty agent. This will save you from being inundated with calls from other agents trying to represent you. Ask your Atlantic Sotheby's International Realty agent to supply you with some of his or her business cards to make the Open House sign-in process even easier.

COMPARE PROPERTIES

Discuss each home you see with your agent, and provide candid feedback. Your expectations and the marketplace will begin to converge, and your agent will be able to adjust certain parameters such as location and features in order to present you with alternatives. Use the Atlantic Sotheby's International Realty Property Comparison Sheet to track and compare each listing. When you find a home and are ready to make an offer, your agent will perform a Comparative Market Analysis or CMA. This report compares the subject property with other properties that are currently listed and recently sold to help you formulate your offer.

PROPERTY TYPES

From sprawling single-family estates, to condos, to sturdy beach cottages, Hampton Roads housing is very diverse, giving homebuyers virtually limitless options when looking for a home to call their own. Just about any neighborhood in the city offers a variety of housing styles and a choice between existing, new-construction or rehabbed homes. Following is a brief rundown of the types of residences you're most likely to encounter during a home search in Hampton Roads:

THE BUYING PROCESS

4. Finding Your Home (cont)

SINGLE-FAMILY HOMES

Officially defined as a residential structure that includes only one dwelling, single-family homes are readily available in most Hampton Roads neighborhoods. However, buyers should be prepared to pay a premium for extra land, privacy, square footage and outdoor space a single-family home may afford. The variety of single-family homes in Hampton Roads is vast and includes ranch, single-family detached condos, modern homes and multi- million dollar mansions.

TOWNHOMES

Townhomes are single-level or multi-level dwellings that share at least one common wall with a neighboring home, which typically has a similar façade. In some areas of Hampton Roads, where land costs are high, Townhomes tend to be more affordable than single-family homes since they use land more efficiently. Likewise, the common walls and roofs of Townhomes lessen construction costs for developers. Townhomes are usually lower-maintenance and offer buyers many of the features they would typically find in a single-family home, such as ample living space, a private garage and an outdoor area. Town home buyers enjoy the benefits of a strong community.

CONDOMINIUMS

Purchasing a condominium in a multi-unit building means the buyer owns an individual unit as well as a share of the building's common areas, such as the lobby, corridors and amenity areas. Many buyers choose condominiums because they require little maintenance, frequently offer amenities such as a swimming pool or fitness center, and in most cases are relatively affordable compared to townhomes or single-family homes. Because of the shared ownership, a condominium association is responsible for decisions regarding the operations of the building, and owners must abide by the rules and regulations set forth by the association. Condominium owners also pay monthly assessments, which cover maintenance and repairs of common areas as well as costs associated with shared amenities. In Hampton Roads, condominiums run the gamut from new-construction urban living with striking views and luxury amenities, to vintage walk-up buildings with charming elements such as original hardwood floors and built-ins.

THE BUYING PROCESS

4. Finding Your Home (cont)

LIVING GREEN

Just as recycling gradually became a part of our everyday lives, “green” features in Hampton Roads homes are becoming more and more common, thanks to demand from homebuyers who want to address their concern for the environment in their every day-to-day living.

Encouraging this trend toward green building is the United States Green Building Council's LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) rating system, which certifies both residential and commercial buildings for meeting environmentally responsible design and construction standards.

Although LEED-certified residences are still somewhat rare, most developers agree that the eco-friendly building techniques and features endorsed by the Council will soon be the standard in new-construction homes. In the meantime, homebuyers in Hampton Roads can choose from plentiful housing options that offer many of the same features that contribute to LEED certification, such as:

- A location near public transportation.
- Building materials containing recycled content.
- Renewable energy sources such as solar power.
- Energy-efficient windows, appliances and heating and cooling systems.
- Plumbing fixtures that reduce overall water use.
- Rapidly renewing or recycled materials for interior finishes, such as bamboo flooring, wool carpet, and countertops made from recycled metal or glass.
- Low-VOC (volatile organic compound) paints, carpet adhesives and sealants, which limit emission of volatile organic compounds and thereby promote a healthier indoor environment.
- Native vegetation in landscaped areas or on a green roof.
- A landscape irrigation system that recycles rainwater.
- Facilities for storage and collection of recyclables.

If green features are important to you, talk to your Atlantic Sotheby's International Realty agent. We'll help you find a housing option that fits your needs.

THE BUYING PROCESS

5. Making An Offer

Chances are, when you find a home you absolutely love, someone else may love it too. So it's important to act quickly and make an educated offer based on a rational approach to pricing and negotiating that you and your agent have discussed. To start the process, your agent will draw up a contract that includes your offering price and other terms and contingencies. Buyers often focus on price, but there are other important terms to a real estate contract. You can include any terms you like, but the more you add, the more likely the seller is to object. Here are the most common elements of a real estate contract:

PRICE | The market will determine the final price, but your agent will help you formulate an offer based on comparable listings and sales, and current market conditions.

MORTGAGE CONTINGENCY | A mortgage contingency stipulates that you will buy the home subject to obtaining a mortgage. If you cannot obtain a mortgage, and the seller will not agree to finance the sale, then the contract will be void. The terms of the mortgage must be stated in the contract, and you will also need to establish a timeframe for securing financing.

HOME INSPECTION CONTINGENCY | A thorough inspection of the property by a licensed home inspector protects you against structural or material problems that are not detectable in a casual "walk-through". Home inspections are just as important in new construction as they are in resale. Obviously, buyers can't inspect a home that isn't built yet, but they can request an inspection prior to closing. In new construction, an inspector will make sure that all mechanical systems are working properly. They may also spot repairs that need to be added to the builder's punch list (a list of items that need to be completed).

EARNEST MONEY DEPOSIT

Earnest money is a deposit (typically 1% of the offer amount), given by the buyer to the seller, which secures the contract until the closing. An initial deposit, usually in the form of a check, will be given to your agent along with the contract and is typically held in an escrow account until the closing, when it may be applied to the down payment and/or closing costs. If the sale does not go through due to contingencies covered within the contract, then the earnest money may be returned to the buyer. However, if a buyer is in breach of contract, then a seller may be entitled to keep all or a portion of the earnest money.

CLOSING DATE

One of the most important terms of a real estate contract is the closing date – the date when ownership changes hands. This is usually, but not always, the date that the seller must vacate and the buyer may occupy the property. Flexibility on the closing date can give a buyer a big advantage over other potential buyers. Occasionally, it can also allow you to negotiate a lower price or other, more favorable terms.

THE BUYING PROCESS

6. Negotiating Counteroffers

In many transactions, there is a fair amount of negotiation – offers and counter offers - before both parties are satisfied.

This is one aspect of a real estate transaction in which an agent is invaluable. Not only can an agent draw upon his or her experience and market knowledge to offer sound advice during a negotiation, but he or she can also serve as a buffer between the buyer and the seller's agent. Negotiating for a home can be a highly charged and emotional process. But the most emotional buyer will look like one cool customer behind the right agent, and in the end, you secure the best deal possible on the house you love.

7. From Contract to Closing

In a real estate transaction, there are dozens of loose ends to tie up, between signing the contract and closing the sale. Atlantic Sotheby's International Realty is known for our attention to detail during this important phase in which we coordinate and oversee the following steps:

- Deliver earnest money to the escrow agent.
- Recommend and schedule a home inspector and accompany the buyer on the inspection. It is always highly recommended that the buyer attend the inspection along with his or her Atlantic Sotheby's International Realty agent in order to make sure that any issues that come up are properly relayed and addressed.
- Recommend a title and settlement agent.
- Obtain important documents, such as property disclosure forms and condominium documents (budget, declaration, condo association minutes), and deliver them to the buyer and buyer's settlement agent.
- Recommend mortgage professionals and help expedite the loan application process.
- Monitor all contingencies to ensure that they have been met.
- Recommend service providers for moving, home-improvement and repairs.
- Schedule a final walk-through. Again, both buyer and buyer's agent should be present.
- Coordinate and attend your closing.

THE BUYING PROCESS

7. Closing

Your Atlantic Sotheby's International Realty agent will work closely with you, your lender, your real estate settlement agent, and the seller's agent to make sure everything is in place for a smooth and efficient closing.

Typically, a day or two prior to the closing, your lender will forward all loan documentation to the title company and let you know the amount required to close. You will be responsible for bringing the balance of your down payment and closing costs (such as lender fees, title company fees, and state and city transfer taxes) to the closing in the form of a cashier's check. At the closing, your settlement agent will guide you through the many documents you need to sign, including the bill of sale, the deed and the affidavit of title.

Atlantic Sotheby's International Realty's goal is to provide you with the information you need to feel confident at your closing. If you have questions about your closing, contact your agent.

In addition, if you have an existing home to sell, Atlantic Sotheby's International Realty will customize a comprehensive marketing program to help you achieve the highest possible sales price in the shortest amount of time. 8. After You Buy

While your transaction is complete, our work is not. In fact, Atlantic Sotheby's International Realty maintains relationships with our clients long after closing. We are always glad to help you find a variety of service providers and tradesmen to perform work on your home or make life a little easier.

As you're getting settled into your new home, here are a few situations you may encounter in the coming months and years that are important to think about.

REBUILDING YOUR SAVINGS & MAINTAINING FINANCIAL DISCIPLINE

Buyers should definitely take the time to review and evaluate their finances after a home purchase. One important step to consider is setting up an automatic electronic payment with your mortgage lender, which lets you avoid costly penalties associated with late payments.

Also, make a plan for gradually rebuilding your savings account, which many buyers deplete in order to make their down payment and pay for moving costs. As a homeowner, it's more important than ever to have a cash reserve set aside for unanticipated maintenance that your home may require. In fact, a general rule of thumb is that homeowners should expect to spend about 1 to 2 percent of the cost of their home per year on maintenance and repairs.

THE BUYING PROCESS

8. After You Buy, (cont)

HOME IMPROVEMENT | Whether it's a fresh coat of paint, new hardwood floors or a major kitchen remodel, most new homeowners have at least a few projects they want to undertake once they move in. Your Atlantic Sotheby's International Realty agent can help you find a variety of service providers and tradesmen to perform work on your home.

REFINANCING | Keep an eye on interest rates even after you purchase your home. If rates go down, you may be able to save money by refinancing, which simply means you take out a new mortgage at a lower interest rate to replace your original loan. Another common situation that calls for refinancing is the expiration of the initial, fixed-rate period on an Adjustable Rate Mortgage (ARM). If prevailing fixed rates are substantially lower than the rate your ARM will carry once it adjusts, then it might make sense to refinance into a fixed-rate loan.

Today, many lenders offer no-cost refinancing, which basically means they take the costs and fees associated with refinancing and roll them into the interest rate. It's a way for homeowners to lower their monthly payment with little or no money out of pocket.

While refinancing a mortgage has become much easier in recent years, it is still a major financial transaction with important implications. So be just as diligent in a refinance as you were in securing your original mortgage. Your Atlantic Sotheby's International Realty agent will happily refer you to a mortgage professional to help you determine the right time to refinance.

ASIR is one of Hampton Roads top real estate firms. We're happy to make a referral to a local mortgage loan officer.

Online, at www.atlanticsothebysrealty.com will also help you approach the mortgage process with insight and confidence. Whether you are a first-time or repeat buyer, our agents can direct help you seek out valuable information and resources, including interest rates; information on getting pre-approved and ordering your credit score; and FAQs. Following are some mortgage basics.

A mortgage qualification is one of the most important steps in the home-buying process, and one that should be performed before you begin your search. Here's why.

First, a pre-qualification lets you know exactly how much you can afford. Your time is valuable, and you don't want to waste it looking at properties outside of your price range. That doesn't only apply to homes that are too expensive. Uniformed buyers underestimate their buying power just as often as they overestimate it.

Second, a pre-qualification demonstrates to potential sellers that you are a willing and able buyer. Most sellers would rather accept a lower offer from a bonafide buyer than risk a higher bid from someone who is not pre-approved. Finally, getting pre-approved before you begin your home search gives you an important head start on the process of securing an actual loan commitment. Keep in mind there are important differences between being pre-qualified, pre-approved and approved for a mortgage.

- Pre-Qualification: Pre-qualification is an informal assessment of your borrowing power based on information you provide to a lender. Actual financial documents are not used or verified when determining this estimate.
- Pre-approval: Pre-qualification is an estimate of the amount you can borrow based on a lender's verification of your financial documents, employment and credit history.
- Pre-approval Letter: When pre-approved, your lender will issue a loan commitment which states that your lending institution has verified your financial information.

Today, most mortgage lenders use consumer credit scores as the key measure for evaluating borrowers. A credit score is an objective appraisal of your credit risk, based on past credit activity. Scores range from a low of 300 to a high of 850, and lenders equate a higher score with less risk – and better terms for the borrower. Since your credit score is based on several factors, including your payment history, outstanding credit obligations and the length of time you have these obligations, there are steps you can take to maintain a high score or improve a low score.

- Pay Bills On Time
- Maintain low balance on credit cards and revolving credit.
- Payoff any revolving debt rather than moving it from one card to another
- Apply for and open new credit accounts only as needed
- Maintain some open credit
- If you miss payments or run into problems, take steps to re-establish a good track record as soon as possible
